A small family of three is falling apart. They couldn't make it. Karen couldn't make it. While doing everything right - parting as friends, signing the papers, sharing custody, the way a modern woman is supposed to, everything inside her is rebelling. No, the child is mine. I'm its mother. There is nothing modern about me.

Be Kind to the Animals is a raw, warm, acute, but at the same time surprising novel about being in the ruins of a marriage with the one you care about the most - every other week.

Winner of the 2016 Norwegian National Book Award Brageprisen for Fiction.

Monica Isakstuen (b. 1976) made her literary debut in 2009. Her 2014 novel Replay about pianist Joyce Hatto and the greatest fraud in classical music earned rave reviews, with VG naming it one of the best books of the year.

Isakstuen is one of the participants chosen for NORLA's development programme for new literary talents "New Voices", a part of the project of Norway as Guest of Honour at the Frankfurt Book Fair in 2019.

For øvrig mener jeg at Karthago bør ødelegges (Furthermore, I Consider that Carthage Must be Destroyed) is a novel about Krister Larsen, an electrician with great pride and huge back pains. It is a novel about knowing more, but never being right. About understanding the system, but never getting the upper hand. About love, anger management and working under the table.

Krister Larsen is married to Marianne, and they have a son, Andreas, who is 11. Krister is not very happy. His son is having trouble in school, his wife is only thinking about building a pergola in the garden, and then there is Yvonne, a woman he is extremely attracted to, even if he is denying it, for himself and for everybody else. Krister is a very common man, he is sensitive yet bullying, a reader and a thinker, as well as a bodybuilder. Strong on the outside, softer inside.

The whole story is told from Krister' view, from inside his mind. In glimpses we get to know the contours of his life, a number of events involving women, temperament, but also how he is a friendly guy who wants to do well and doesn't want trouble. Actually. It's about work. About pride in what you do. About the difficult love. Insight into yourself and others. Alienation between spouses, parents and children and friends, social interaction and everything we are not talking about.

"This book is entertaining, really funny in fact, but also brutal. The brilliance of the novel - nothing less – lies within the cool but elegant transition to something darker, the more threatening and irrational aspects of the cheerful chatterer from Drammen."

Jens M. Johansson's big breakthrough in Norway, shamelessly praised by critics – readers are already calling it a Norwegian Elena Ferrante.

The story revolves around Elsa. We follow her from when she is born on the day before the Second World War breaks out, and to her death. Simon is the narrator. He is married to Elsa's youngest daughter. Katya has always been furious with her mother. Now – as Katya and Simon's marriage is falling apart – he starts to piece together Elsa's forgotten life. Simon's pursuit through letters, diaries, small notes and receipts gradually becomes more desperate. He has to understand Elsa in order to understand Katya, to save their marriage. And most importantly – he is afraid he will inflict his son Leon with the unhappiness he feels in his own marriage.

The novel describes Elsa's social climb and a world in quick transformation: a world war, a sexual revolution. It shows how minor details are crucial to a human's destiny. It's about the fragile choices we make in our lives, about expectations and betrayal. A moving story about love, marriage, family and a sense of belonging.

Jens M. Johansson made his debut in 2002. In 2013 he published Bryllup og begravelser (Weddings and Funerals), which was named best book of the year by many critics. A Good Life is his fifth novel. Johansson is also a praised journalist, famous for outstanding portraits, some collected in the non-fiction book: Dead fathers (2012)

A teacher leaves a house in a town by the foot of the Alps. She hurries to the library, where she passes an elderly man, who continues to the swimming hall, where he meets a young man. In 24 hours the story runs from person to person throughout central Europe.

One of these people is looking for a dissertation on Tom and the Rabbit, the popular children's book that Eivind Ness published before his serious, bestselling novels. Erik Andersen, a writer of the more inaccessible kind, wants to write a biography of Ness because of the children's book. But he needs the cooperation of the author's widow.

Years later, an older charity fundraiser stands in a doorway, wondering if she will recognize the young man and woman living in the house.

A novel in three independent, but interconnected parts, Easy Atonal Pieces for Children is as unpredictable and idiosyncratic as it is entertaining.

Julia Pastrana, «the bear woman», was born in 1834 in Mexico, with a condition that caused extreme growth of body hair. An immediate sensation, she married an American impresario and performed in front of paying audiences all over the world.

In 1860, the couple is in Moscow. Julia is about to give birth, but can still be seen every day at the circus. Public curiosity grows by the day: Will her child be covered in fur too?

In the late 1970s a shady character living on an Oslo garbage dump discovers a stuffed woman's body. He brings her home to have somebody to talk to.

In 2013, the journalist Kira travels to Sinaloa to attend the handover of Julia's remains to the Mexican state. Kira, expectant as a consequence of rape, carries a spawn of darkness.

Expectant is a dizzyingly inventive and tender exploration of birth and death, transgression and abnormality.

Gunstein Bakke (b. 1968) made his debut with the novel The Office in 2000. His third novel, Maud and Aud (2011), won the EU prize and was shortlisted for the Brage Prize, the P2 Listeners' Novel Prize and several other awards. Bakke has also published a collection of poetry and edited an anthology on the July 22 attacks.

A groundbreaking work of literary fiction.

In 2015, author Demian Vitanza was teaching a writing class in one of Norway's high security prisons when he met «Tariq», a young Norwegian-Pakistani man imprisoned for travelling to Syria and taking part in terrorist actions. «I want you to write my story» he told Vitanza. «But it needs to be in the form of a novel»

Based on more than hundred hours of conversation, this is the story of a young man driven as much by idealism as by his emerging faith, who constantly questions and doubts the actions that eventually puts him at the Syrian border in the middle of the night.

Combined with the literary sensibility of one of Norway's best young authors, this novel, in addition to shining new light on one of the most urgent issues of today's Europe, is also a timeless work of literature about memory, truth and the way we present and justify our own stories.

'The by far best book the reviewer has read about foreign fighters going to Syria.'

Thomas Marco Blatt grew up in Oslo and Sørumsand. He attended the Writing Academy in Bergen and took the author programme Litterär gestaltning at the University of Gothenburg.

For his poetry collection Slik vil jeg måle opp verden (That is how I would survey the world, 2006) Blatt received the Tarjei Vesaas Author's Debut Prize. Since then he has published two poetry collections and a young adult novel. Varsjøen is his first adult novel.

Summer of 1991. Morten Bodrum and his three-year-older brother Markus are among a gang of friends who go off to lake Varsjøen to swim. Markus falls off a cliff, hits his head and drowns. More than 20 years later, Morten gets a phone call from a childhood friend Tommy Lystad, who claims he knows what actually happened on that summer day down at the lake. Morten Bodrum is jerked out of what are already difficult circumstances, and sets out on a journey that is to prove a watershed in his life.

Varsjøen is a novel about the dark sides of growing up in Norway – an elegant, low-key and at times amusing portrayal of a man who has both past and present turned upside-down.

Sandra is fourteen. She has lost her mother and is about to be handed over to foster parents on a farm by the sea. Now she is sitting in the back seat of a strange car, trying to memorise the route so that she can find her way back. Morten is standing by the window of his room. He has been longing for somebody to talk to, and he sees a car coming up the road through the asparagus fields. The girl in the backseat is his age, but she is tall enough to see into the world of the adults.

In dense, down-to-earth prose, Joachim Førsund writes about the possibility of becoming close with another person and the risk of being abandoned.

'quietly sensitive, poetic in a sober way, but also terrifying ... immaculate ... a gorgeous piece of writing'

Fjällräven Yellow is a coming-of-age novel. We meet eighteen year old Sjur Tangen in the aftermath of a serious traffic accident in which a girlfriend died. His best friend, Frede, is still in hospital and has given Sjur the responsibility for delivering a yellow back-pack with secret contents to various places in Hakadal, where he lives.

At home, his mother is arguing with her lover, and his little brother, Jesper, is having violent temper tantrums. Sjur has hardly any contact with his father, and now his dog, Houdini, has gone missing in the mountains. And all the time Sjur is thinking about a girl called Pjotr, and the things that happened last summer.

Tiril Broch Aakre works as a translator and as an editor at Vigmostad & Bjørke. She made her debut in 2013 with Kniplinger, a collection of poems. In 2015 she published the novel Redd barna (Save the Children), a book she received The Young Critics Award for. Her latest novel is Fjällräven Gul (Fjellräven Yellow - or The Yellow Backpack). PHOTO: LINNEA SYVERSEN

This exceptionally mature debut consists of twelve short stories which all depict relations between people who are either related or close friends. The situations described in the stories all reflect that which is on the verge of the unendurable. Very often the protagonist's identity, gender and relationship with the other characters become clear only very gradually, yet the climaxes are never strained.

Koritzinsky writes in an easy, yet exquisite, startling and precise language. She has the ability to render how young people's need for control leads to the fear of tying themselves emotionally to others. The author describes, often in a terrifying way, how a coolly detached person devoid of empathy observes others from a distance.

Roskva Koritzinsky made her literary debut with the short story collection Somewhere In Here (2013), which received excellent reviews and was nominated for the Tarjei Vesaas' First Book Prize. The Flame and the Darkness (2015) is her second book.

A deceased small-town midwife. A disappeared tenant. And a dog that is a nuisance.

Elvira doesn't really get other people and prefers to keep them at a safe distance with calculations, spreadsheets and crass remarks. And life would have continued in this vein, if it hadn't been for the strange occurrence of that day. The retired midwife who lived next door dies, and the woman who rented rooms up the hill suddenly and mysteriously disappear. Elvira is convinced that someone in the small southern town is hiding a dark secret. With the sharp mind of an auditor and the midwife's pesky dog in tow, she takes the matter into her own hands. Reluctantly, she is forced to talk to the people around her. And so she discovers that most people, and perhaps even the wealthy man who lives out on the island Engholmen, are not as bad as she would have liked them to be.

Linda Skomakerstuen lives in Risør, a small town on the southern coast of Norway. She has an education in economics and is working as an auditor. For the time being, she is writing, when she is not managing a family of five. Without Significant Errors or Omissions is her debut novel.

During the past three years, Lene Wold has spent a considerable amount of time in Jordan with a man who has killed both his mother and one of his two daughters in order to restore his family's honour. Wold has travelled around Jordan and interviewed a number of people about honour killing. The author portrays the man's upbringing, culture and dilemmas that shaped him as a person and the choices he made. Wold's other important source is Amina. This daughter spent several years in prison after the failed murder attempt in order to protect her from her own family. In Jordan, it is the women, the survivors of attempted honour killings, who are imprisoned, not the perpetrators. The author has visited prisons and mosques, searched through newsprints and court archives and contacted imams, village heads and killers. Using a unique source material, Wold illuminates a hitherto unknown aspect of honour killings. The story is told from the perpetrator's perspective, and Wold shows that honour killings are not about Islam, but about traditions and laws, which must be challenged and changed. No Honour in Crime is a shocking and illuminating tale of how a man chooses inherited culture over the lives of his own children.

Lene Wold is a journalist and has a degree in social science. She has worked for the The Independent and The Centre for Investigative Journalism in England and has lived and worked as a freelancer in the Middle East. # Amundsen's Last Voyage

Amundsens siste reise

Genre: Non-fiction
Category: History
Publisher: Forlaget Press
Year: 2017
Pages: 348+24

On May 25th, 1928 the Italian airship "Italia" was wrecked north of Svalbard. It was on its way back from an expedition to the North Pole which had made headlines all over Europe. The wreck marked the beginning of one of the greatest rescue operations in Arctic history. The rescue action soon became part of a high political game for the Northern areas. On June 18th the old Polar hero Roald Amundsen left Tromsø to join the race together with five others on board the French plane "Latham". Three hours later signals were received from the plane on its way to Bjørnøya. This is the last time we hear from Roald Amundsen. "Latham" and the entire crew disappeared without a trace.

In 1928 Roald Amundsen was 56 years old. He had financial problems, his last expeditions had been heavily criticized, he was an aging Polar hero with a faded reputation. The rescue action of the "Latham" was simply necessary in order for him to reestablish himself in the eyes of the public. But the expedition was poorly equipped and badly organized. Did Amundsen realize the risk he was taking? And what happened to the plane and the crew on board?

Monica Kristensen is known as one of Norway's finest crime writers of today, and is also highly successful as a nonfiction writer. In Amundsens siste reise she invests her skill as a storyteller in a material that she knows better than most, viz. the history of the Arctic. Based on so far unpublished sources she delivers a sharp and moving portrait of Amundsen while at the same time examining an unknown part of our Arctic history – and telling a dramatic and incredible story from the North.

A documentary page-turner that sheds a light on the last days of one of Norway's national heroes.

Monica Kristensen is one of Norway's finest scientists of the Polar regions and has led spectacular expeditions under Arctic and Antarctic skies. She has taken part in several research investigations at Svalbard and from 1998 – 2003 she worked as the director of Kings Bay in Ny-Ålesund, Svalbard. After completing a doctorate in glaciology at Cambridge University she has received a number of prestigious awards, amongst others the Royal Geographical Society's gold medal. Hollendergraven (The Dutchman's Grave) was her debut novel, and is part of a crime-series that will consist of at least 12 volumes.

Roger Casement was possibly the most hated man in England during WW I. In 1916, he was hanged for high treason for having sought German support for a rebellion in Ireland. Two years earlier, he had travelled to Berlin while British men were being massacred on the battle fields in Europe. Flaming Irish nationalism emboldened him to make the fateful trip – along with blind confidence in a young Norwegian sailor.

Eivind Adler Christensen escorted Casement into Germany, and remained to serve as his closest aide and companion. Shortly after his arrival, Casement launched a fantastic offensive designed to bring the British Empire to its knees, using Christensen as his field agent. The plan was to tarnish Britain's reputation to such an extent that the global community would turn on the self professed world leader.

Still, many in the Irish rebel community wondered why Casement was so dedicated to a man nobody could vouch for. The truth would have shocked them beyond words. Christensen was not only Casement's assistant, he was also his lover.

Double Game is the incredible story of the unlikely relationship between two men in a ruthless and manly world. It is a story of a lover who mainly loved himself, and of a traitor who ended up being betrayed himself.

'Double Game is an immensely well-told drama of the destinies of two men, set in the shadow of World War I.'

I am the people. The growth and future of European right wing populism

2017 was the year when right-wing populism should win in country after country. Inspired by the shock of Brexit and Donald Trump's victory in the US, Europe's right-wing populists got together in Koblenz in Germany. At place were a confidant and intense Marine Le Pen. The uncompromising Dutch politician Geert Wilders held a speech, smilingly in his designer suit. On the scene was the strict Frauke Petry from Germany and the down-to-earth Matteo Salvini from the north of Italy. These leaders represent the future of Europe – according to themselves – because they are leading in the fight against EU, against immigration and for a new patriotism. "History is written before our eyes", exclaimed an excited Marine Le Pen.

Author Simen Ekern has travelled through Europe and met party leaders, ideologists and voters to learn about our most discussed political movements. French Le Pen is the front woman in this alliance and Ekern shows how she made her father's party, National Front, into a modern party. When she lost the presidential election spring 2017, the president of the EU-parliament concluded, "The growth of Populism is over". Simen Ekern explains why it may be too early to breathe easy.

"With sharp observations and a pointed pen, Ekern dissects the European right-wing populism."

"Where does my father's story begin? Where does my own story begin?"
When Ivo de Figueiredo at the age of 45 years asked these questions, he opened the door to family history spanning over four continents, five centuries and the rise and fall of two empires.

His father's family emigrated from the Portuguese colony of Goa on the west coast of India to British East Africa. They were Indians with European ways and values, trusted servants of the imperial powers. When colonialism came to an end, they became homeless, redundant, caught between the age of empires and the age of nations and were thus forced to fight their way westwards. Some came to the United States, some to England. One got away from the others and ended up in Bamble, on the coast of Norway.

This is the story of a family created by the European empires, and who paid the price for their downfall. It is the story of a family that never stops losing each other, but always manages to find each other again. More than anything, this is an account of a son searching for his father's story, and ending up rewriting his own.

In terms of genre, the work is a mixture between the documentary, the Jewish heritage epos and the post-colonial novel. Ivo de Figueiredo is influenced by authors such as W. G. Sebald, Edmund de Waal and Daniel Mendelsohn.

In A Stranger at My Table Ivo de Figueiredo shifts with remarkable audacity between the minute and the major things in life.

Ivo de Figueiredo (b. 1966) received the Brage Prize in 2002 for his biography on Johan Bernhard Hjort. In 2006 he published Henrik Ibsen. Mennesket (Henrik Ibsen. The Man) the first volume of the critically acclaimed biography about the author, followed by Henrik Ibsen. Masken (Henrik Ibsen. The Mask) in 2007. Ivo de Figueiredo has also published two critically awarded non-fiction titles for YA readers about Henrik Ibsen and Henrik Wergeland. In 2010 came Mysteriet Ingeborg Køber (The Mystery of Ingeborg Køber), and in 2014 Ord/kjøtt: Norsk Scenedramatik 1890 – 2000 (Words/Flesh: Norwegian Stage Drama 1890 – 2000).

Ivo de Figueiredo works as a critic at Morgenbladet and Aftenposten and is a member of the Norwegian Academy.

Almost Human – A Biography of Julius the Chimpanzee Nesten menneske. Biografien om Julius

Samlaget 2017
 228 Pages
 Complete English translation available

Julius the Chimpanzee is the most famous animal in Norway. He was born on Boxing Day 1979, in Kristiansand Zoo in southern Norway. Six weeks old he was rejected by his mother and had to live with a human family for one year. A camera crew followed him during this period and the following TV program made him into a celebrity in Norway. The humans tried to raise him as a regular chimp and in due course he was returned to his own tribe. But he was frequently brought back to the humans and for a long while he was homeless in both worlds. Julius escaped several times from the chimp island in the Zoo. He became dangerous and vicious, attacking humans, which eventually forced them to isolate him in a cage. Only after twenty-five turbulent years his carers managed to make him the leader of the tribe in 2005. Today, Julius lives as a content alpha chimpanzee and father of two within a community of nine chimpanzees. This book tells the remarkable history about this unique chimpanzee life.

Using international research on chimpanzees, the author attempts to find out and understand what goes on in the head of chimpanzees like Julius. The Chimpanzees are intelligent and social animals, they can learn sign language, they can collaborate and plan the future, they can be empathetic and self-sacrificing, and at the same time brutal and completely merciless. The book is a biography for adult readers, with the same methodology and documentation requirements expected from a modern biography, but with this tiny exception from the modern standard biography: that the subject of the biography is not and never has been human - only just.

"This book is not just for chimpanzee lovers, but for lovers of all animals. Also unexpectedly interesting and funny for those fond of biographies."

The Longest Chase Jakten på Thunder

Vigmostad & Bjørke 2016
323 Pages

English material available: Project Description, Sample Chapter Breakdown & List of Involved Countries

After reaching the Banzare bank in the Arctic Ocean, captain Peter Hammarstedt and the crew of his environmental campaigning ship «Bob Barker» embarked on a chase unlike any seen before. By way of frequent flag changes, hidden ownership, false papers and helped along by antiquated regulations for stopping crime at sea, the trawler «Thunder» was able to continue its illegal fishing activity in ocean areas around Antarctica for more than 10 years making as much as £5 million a year. In 2013, Interpol put out a notice for the ship internationally, but still it took the environmental organisation Sea Shepherd to finally pin down the poachers in a desolate ocean area around Antarctica. For four consecutive months, «Bob Barker» followed in the wake of the notorious poaching trawler «Thunder». The hunt for «Thunder» has now been reported all over the world but the authors were the first to tell the story in a series of articles in the Norwegian newspaper Dagens Næringsliv. They followed the trail to the criminal kingpins in Spain, uncovered comprehensive fraud surrounding the ship's papers and exposed how the vessel was used for rampant criminal activity at sea.

«Thunder's» story isn't unique. In the Antarctic Ocean, the Atlantic, the Indian Ocean as well as the Pacific, tonnes of fish are caught illegally every day. Illegal fishing is a crime without borders. This is the story of big money and powerful international crime syndicates.

What happens when the freedom our parents and grandparents fought so hard for becomes the very thing that restricts and suppresses us?

Kaja Melsom investigates how freedom in excess can in fact rob us of all choice, paralyse us even, and leave us anxious, ashamed and filled with self-doubt.

“An overload of options, combined with a social code telling us that happiness is a matter of realising our potential, invites a continuous search for something better than what we already have. The constant certainty that a more attractive alternative could arise – one that might bring us into full bloom – makes it difficult to devote ourselves to anything wholeheartedly. It’s like going on a date while scanning the room for a better prospect. It’s difficult to enjoy life that way and impossible to attain the happiness that the ideal of freedom promises.”

From Kaja Melsom’s F#!king Freedom, p.9

Drawing on her background in psychology and philosophy, Kaja Melsom presents a thought-provoking and nuanced take on the concept of freedom in modern society. For the readers who liked Rebecca Solnit’s Men explain things to me, Erling Kagge’s Quiet, and Svend Brinkmann’s Stand Firmly.

F#!king Freedom brings the reader on a timely and accessible journey of self-discovery by way of Kant and Rousseau as well as Geoff Dyer and Karl Ove Knausgaard while offering us the tools to free ourselves from too much freedom.

Norway's leading travel writer has followed the world's most famous railway journey – from London to Istanbul and on to Samarkand – and woven it into his most sparkling book so far.

For more than 100 years the legendary Orient Express ruled the tracks between Paris and Istanbul. With the backdrop of history, Torbjørn Færøvik embarks on his longest railway journey ever - from London to Samarkand. The adventurous journey takes him through twelve countries and twenty-two cities, stretching a distance of 4,700 miles and including crossing the Caspian Sea.

Thorbjørn Færøvik is the only writer who has been awarded the Brage Prize three times. As an author he is known to be knowledgeable, open and curious - and humoristic. In this, his 10th book, he gives us a rich gallery of people and destinies, culture, tradition and drama throughout history.

"Samarkand was the natural place to end the journey." says the writer. "The pearl of the Silk Road, the goal of all dreamers."

Close the doors, take a seat. Come on a journey you will never forget!

Torbjørn Færøvik has a Master degree in Asian History and has published several critically acclaimed travel books, as well as books for young adults. He has received the Brage prize three times, for India (1999), for China (2003) and for Maos rike - En lidelseshistorie (2012). ### The History of Terrorism: From Bakunin to the Islamic State Terrorismens historie. Attentat og terrorbekjempelse fra Bakunin til IS

Dreyer Forlag 2017
389 Pages

In this book, Dr. Nick Sitter explores and assesses 150 years of terrorism against Western states and empires and the counter-terrorism lessons that can be drawn from this experience. Terrorist groups come in many forms and draw on a range of ideologies – from anarchists, Marxist and right wing extremism to nationalism and religion. They differ widely not just in terms of ideology, but also in terms of whether they seek to change the prevailing world order or join it; whether they use terrorism as one of several tactics or use terrorism as their one and only strategy; whether they operate in isolation from society or can draw on broad public support or sympathy; and whether they strike at a narrow set of targets or define the entire civilian population as a legitimate target for political violence. Having said that, there are also a number of common elements that can be found in almost all terrorists' strategies. The four common elements of most terrorist campaigns that provide a starting point for developing a robust counter-terrorism strategy are: i) an effort to provoke an overreaction by the state; ii) an effort to polarize society; iii) a effort to mobilize and recruit supporters; and iv) an effort to avenge perceived wrongs. Consequently, terrorism is better understood as "armed propaganda" than as an existential threat – at least for the USA and European states (in the context of civil wars and insurgencies, terrorism can of course be part of an existential threat to a state or empire). The lessons of 150 years of terrorism and counterterrorism is that terrorism is better fought by law enforcement and intelligence agencies than directly by the military. This holds even for the threat Al Qaeda and the Islamic State represents to western states today.

Dr Nick Sitter is Professor of Political Economy at the Department of Law and Governance at the BI Norwegian Business School; and Professor of Public Policy at Central European University. He is also Research Associate at the Centre for Analysis of Risk and Regulation at the London School of Economics and Political Science. He holds his BSc, MSc and PhD from the LSE Department of Government. He was Head the CEU Department of Public Policy from 2008 to 2011, and Associate Dean for the BI political economy programme 2004-2014. Sitter now runs BI's security program. In addition to political violence, civil war and terrorism, Sitter's research interests include EU public policy and the international political economy of energy.

His articles have appeared in a range of journals, including Terrorism and Political Violence, West European Politics, Journal of Common Market Studies, Journal of European Public Policy, Democratization and Global Policy. His books and edited volumes include A Liberal Actor in A Realist World: The EU Regulatory State and the Global Political Economy of Energy (Oxford University Press, 2015, co-authored with A. Creativity in Science offers a fascinating journey into the history of creativity. It tells the stories of those innovators who had the courage to challenge established truths and perceptions, and who thereby brought about some of the most important advances in the history of science. The book examines how these figures thought, their struggles and passions, their disappointments and joys.

Creativity in Science also describes the creative processes necessary to discover new scientific laws and construct new theories about the nature of reality. It discusses how new ideas arise and explains how scientific theories are constructed, established and tested on the basis of these ideas.

This is a book for everyone with an interest in scientific thinking and its significance for the development of modern society. With an abundance of interesting stories and anecdotes, it shows us that natural science can be very entertaining reading!

The creative thinkers: Niels Henrik Abel, Thomas Aquinas, Aristoteles, Arkimedes, René Descartes, Thomas Alva Edison, Albert Einstein, Galileo Galilei, Carl Friedrich Gauss, Thor Heyerdahl, Immanuel Kant, Johannes Kepler, Søren A. Kierkegaard, Thomas Samuel Kuhn, Leonardo da Vinci, Niccòlo Machiavelli, Karl Marx, Sir Isaac Newton, Platon, Karl Raimond Popper, Jean-Paul Sartre, Erwin Schrödinger, Hans Skjervheim, Nikola Tesla, Voltaire and more ...

Two historical figures were dramatically affected by a common fate: Socrates and Jesus. Both were executed as dissidents. And that triggered two of western culture's strongest intellectual impulses.

The stories of the two executions are retold and memorized in a way that is unprecedented in world history. The stories about the deaths of Socrates and Jesus is not only interesting biographical information. They are also key documents for understanding what it means to be human.

Socrates has an unshakable equanimity when confronted with death and drinks his cup of poison cup with a light hand and a light heart. Jesus, however, is approaching death with anxiety and despair: "My God, my God, why have you forsaken me?" This inequality has a deep significance: Socrates' equanimity and Jesus' agony expresses two different perceptions of reality, Platonism and Christianity.

Jarle Rasmussen retells the trials as they are presented by Plato and in the Bible, and he shows their timeliness by drawing lines until the present time. Through the comparison both Socrates and Jesus appear more clearly, and we get some surprises: Two thousand years later the mindset of the two is partly mixed, partly reversed. The church, in its preoccupation with the hereafter and of conveying an evacuation plan for pious souls, has largely presented a dualism – a distinction between body and soul, matter and spirit – which is more Platonic than Christian. Has the church also forfeited its liberating force?

'Rasmussen has made a fine job popularizing the theology and philosophy.'

Fædrelandsvennen (5 stars)

'The writer's linguistic abilities are also remarkable. The presentation covers many centuries, and that time span sets high demands to language and disposition of the matters, including choice of examples and perspectives. But Rasmussen masters all of this well.'

Yulia Horst (b. 1978) was born and raised in Russia, but currently lives in Oslo. She was educated within ballet and languages and works as a dance teacher. In addition, Yulia is a playwright and has cooperated with the Royal Court Theatre in London. Halens historie was her first book for children.

Daria Rychkova (b. 1982) is originally from Russia, but now lives in Germany where she works in an advertising agency. Rychkova is a qualified designer, and her illustrations appear in several Russian newspapers. Halens historie was her debut foray into book illustration.

Julie Horst and Daria Rychkova (illustrator) gave us Tails Throughout Time (Halens historie, 2013), an ingenious, lexical picture book which won the prestigious Bologna Ragazzi Award Opera Prima. This time, they have written about something all children can relate to, and nearly all are afraid of: the dark.

Through the eyes of a little boy who would rather sleep in his big brother's room, we learn that the darkness can be explained, and that it isn't actually so very frightening.

Suitable for children from 4 to 8 years.

CHILDREN
PICTURE BOOK

Mr. Jones is a grump. He does not like people. He does not like animals. He does not even like children, come to think of it!

One day he suddenly discovers a non-expected visitor in the garden. What should a grump do then?

Mr. Jones has a visitor is a lively book about friendship and how life can be turned upside down by a giant elephant in your own garden. The story tells about little Alfred and the elephant called Gift, and how life might change for a grumpy old man.

Suitable for children from 3 to 6 years.

Elisabeth Moseng (b. 1967) is an illustrator, designer and author. She has got a degree in Art Direction from Westerdals Oslo ACT and a BA in illustration from Kingston University in London. Moseng has illustrated a wide range of books for children. She is well-known for her playful and expressive style, and she describes herself as an illustrator with a graphic expression. Moseng has received a many diplomas for "The Year's Most Beautiful Books".

In 2014 Moseng made her debut as an author with her picture book When I become a big brother (Når jeg blir storebror), a funny and clever book for young children about all the changes that will take place when you get a baby brother or a baby sister. Now she is back with the exciting and expressive picture book Mr. Jones has a visitor (Herr Hansen får besøk).

English edition of "I Am Death" available as "Life and I. A story About Death".

I Am Death (Jeg er Døden), 2015

In this book we meet Death, in the shape of a kind and considerate person. Death's job is to collect everybody who is about to die – it may be insects and elephants, children and the old. Death plays an indispensable role, because without Death there will not be room for new life to emerge. Death performs the task in as gentle and caring a manner as possible. Death is a part of life, of love and of us all. "I Am Death" is a twin title with "I Am Life". Together they address fundamental questions of life in a beautiful and poetic way.

Illustrated by Marine Schneider.

I Am Life (Jeg er Livet), 2016

In this book we meet Life, in the shape of a kind and considerate person. She is the one who sets everything in motion. And what she loves the most is to give people strength and hope. This title is a celebration of life and the earth we live on. Through images and text it covers life in all its nuances. It also tells of being present and in interaction with nature, animals and humans. I Am Life is a twin title with I Am Death. Together they address fundamental questions of life in a beautiful and poetic way.

Illustrated by Marine Schneider.

I Am The Clown (Jeg er Klovnen), 2017

Illustrated by Marine Schneider.

'Families in mourning will find "I Am Death" quietly reassuring when trying to explain why living beings expire. Marine Schneider's pencil illustrations are delicate yet surprisingly firm – Death may be imagined as a little girl, but she is unwavering.'

Literary Features Syndicate

Elisabeth Helland Larsen studied theater in Paris at the École Internationale de Théâtre Jacques Lecoq and children's literature in Oslo at the Norsk Barnebokinstitut. She has worked as a clown for more than 20 years in hospitals and hospices, as well as refugee camps, circuses, and theaters. Her experiences with children are reflected in her sensitive and insightful stories.

Marine Schneider has drawn since she could hold a pencil. The young Belgian illustrator just received her degree from the LUCA School of Arts. I Am Death was her children's book debut.

OLLIS OLLIS

Genre: Children and Young Adults

Category: Novel

Publisher: Samlaget

Year: 2017

Pages: 207

English sample translation and synopsis available

Meet 10 year old OLLIS, short for Oda Lise Louise Inger Sonja, a new irresistible character in Norwegian children's literature!

Things have turned upside down at Ollis and Mama's house. A tiny, sweet little brother has moved in – but also Mama's irritating, neat-freak boyfriend. Things aren't like they used to be anymore.

Fortunately, the house next door is the perfect sanctuary, as that is where Gro lives. Ollis and Gro are best friends and know each other inside and out. Or do they? Ollis hasn't always been completely honest with Gro. And when they find a postcard in a mystical yellow mailbox in the forest, Ollis' lie grows even bigger. What does Ollis know about the postcard that Gro doesn't?

An exciting children's novel about friendship, family and courage.

Black and white illustrations by Nora Brech.

CHILDREN

PHOTO: OBSERVATORIET

Sara can't be bothered to be nice to Steinar. He's too little and annoying and spoilt. But when his mother dies, he moves in with Sara's family, and Sara finds out she's got a brother. Steinar is always around and spoils everything that used to be great. Sara can't cope with it. Her family can't cope with it. That's when Sara has a fantastic idea that may just change everything.

Illustrated by Jens M. Larsen Aas.

Suitable for children from 6 to 12 years.

Nominated for the Deutscher Jungendliteratur Preis 2020

Linde Hagerup was born in 1968. She grew up at Rykkinn, in the outskirts of Oslo and, according to her, she comes from the least imaginative family in Norway, given the fact that nearly all family members over the last three generations became authors. Adding to that, her grandmother is still one of Norway's most famous and beloved poets, 20 years after her death.

At the age of seventeen, Linde entered the writing school Skrivekunstakademiet in Bergen, being one of their youngest students ever, with Jon Fosse as a prominent teacher.

Later she worked in theatre administration for many years, and spent ten years co-editing the literary journal Vagant. Since her literary debut in 1999 Linde has published seven titles, first and foremost novels. In 2016 she published her first children's novel, En bror for mye.

This is the story of Basse. He leads something of a dog's life. There are various explanations why. Firstly, he happens to be a lazy dog. Secondly, Basse's best buddy is Narco-Kjell. They live together in the world's most untidy flat. One day Gusto knocks on the door - a boy with a very important question. A question which may change everything.

A Dog's Life is nothing like any other book you have ever read. Unless you are a dog.

Suitable for children from 9 to 13 years.

Arne Svingen (b. 1967) is one of our foremost writers for children and young adults. His production spans from easy reads for children, to novels for children and young adults.

He is deeply committed to encouraging children and adolescents to read, and he is a true wizard at using humor and suspense to ensnare his readers. Thematically, his books span from pure entertainment to novels on difficult topics. He has written several novels for adults, radio plays for NRK (The Norwegian Broadcasting Corporation) and graphic novels. A number of Arne Svingen's books have been sold abroad, and he has been translated into fourteen languages. His breakthrough as a writer of thrillers came with Silent Screams (2001). He was awarded the Brage Prize for his novel Black Ivory in 2005.

Tomorrow Everything Will Be Dark (trilogy)

I morgen er alt mørkt (trilogi)

Cappelen Damm 2014-2015-2016

English and German sample translations available

This trilogy, which Norwegian young adults selected as the best book of 2015, has shocked and engaged teens in a sensational way. Film rights have already been sold.

Tomorrow Everything Will Be Dark is an action-packed story from the first page to the last. It is a merciless and brutal dystopia realistically depicted in a cross between disaster and a kind of zombie genre. We follow completely ordinary teenagers who are suddenly cast into chaos. Everything that is safe and civilized around them collapses and disappears. They end up as refugees, must make morally impossible and inhuman choices, and yet still have an indomitable will to live throughout all the darkness. And, as the teenagers they are, infatuation and burgeoning eroticism play an important role in life.

Book 1: TOMORROW EVERYTHING WILL BE DARK

- Awarded the U-book Prize

Book 2: TOMORROW EVERYTHING WILL BE DARK: MARLEN'S STORY

(nominated for the U-book Prize)

Book 3: TOMORROW EVERYTHING WILL BE DARK: THE END OF HISTORY (nominated for the U-book Prize)

Trilogy: Norwegian IBBY's Honorary list 2017.

Suitable for readers aged 12-16.

This is horrifying, thought-provoking and action-packed. (...) The book is exciting and has action and drive – as well as love. I can't see why it would not be a hit with young readers of dystopian fiction.'

Dagbladet (on "Tomorrow Everything Will Be Dark")

'The story is like a clenched fist in the stomach, and I would not be surprised if yet another Young People's Prize for Literature awaits him.'

Dagbladet (on "Tomorrow Everything Will Be Dark: Marlen's Story")

Full English translation available

Have you ever wondered what you would do if you had to make it on your own? If you were stranded on a deserted island or the family car broke down in the middle of nowhere. What if you got lost in the woods and could not find the way home?

This book will teach you how to stay warm, dry and healthy and keep your belly full when you are all alone in the great outdoors. You will also learn how to navigate by the sun and stars, signalling for help, forage for edible plants, filtering water, lighting a fire with a fire drill and much more. And what is the best way to build a snow cave, and how do you behave if you encounter a bear?

Hopefully you will never find yourself in a situation where your life depends on this knowledge, but knowing how to take care of yourself is both useful and fun. Pretending to be lost in the forest or the sole survivor of a shipwreck can make your next family outing a challenging game. On the bare mountain, the deep forest or in the tiny grove behind your house, bush crafting skills makes nature even more enjoyable.

Illustrated by Silje Ensby.

Suitable for children from 8 to 12 years.

Anne Linn Kumano-Ensbj (b. 1980) is an investigating reporter and editor at the documentary department of the Norwegian Broadcasting Corporation (NRK). Andreas Kumano-Ensbj (b. 1980) studied literature at the University of Oslo. He works in audiobook publishing as Head of sales and marketing at the audio book publisher Lydbokforlaget. Both have a lifelong fascination for survival and post-apocalyptic fiction, that pushed them into learning how to live in harmony with nature. In 2014 they wrote Postapokalypse nå! En håndbok i overlevelse / Postapocalypse now! A survival guide.

Illustrations by Silje Ensby (b. 1984), an artist that specialises in portraying traditional crafts and techniques through drawings and film. She studied Fine Art at Bergen Academy of Art and Design (KHiB). This is her third book.
