The world's most scaredy-cat superhero is back!

Do you remember Chicken Man? The superhero who saved the world from devious criminals and dangerous situations, despite always peeing himself in terror?

Now he is back again - more afraid and cowardly than ever!

Fasten your seatbelts and get ready for a new, wild adventure! Chicken Man's superpowers are put to such the test as he stands face to face with his worst opponent ever: Smoke Man! Luckily, Chicken Man gets unexpected help: An unknown superhero hits the stage with amazing abilities and stands side by side with Chicken Man in the fight for justice.

Ladies and gentlemen! Girls and boys! The rider of fear rides again!

Chicken Man is back!

Aslag Guttormsgaard (also a musician and an actor) wrote and played the character Chicken Man in a popular show on Norwegian children's television. Now he has written a brand new script for this first of several volumes of Chicken Man comic books with drawings by cartoonist Ronny Haugeland. Haugeland has previously published a number of comic books, and participated in several anthologies.
