

Gert Nygårdshaug

Hunter's Doll

Jegerdukken

Genre: Fiction

Category: Crime Fiction

Publisher: Cappelen Damm

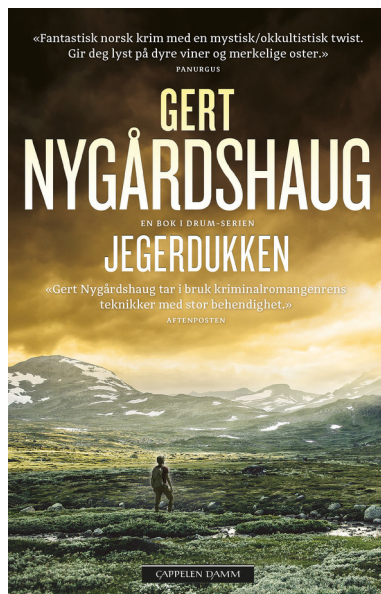

Year: 2017

Pages: 229

A sensational archaeological discovery is made in a desolate mountain valley in Norway:

Two ancient, dead bodies have been dug up from the moss, along with objects with unfamiliar inscriptions. The wine connoisseur and decryption expert Fredric Drum is called and suddenly finds himself in the center of mysterious and dangerous events. The excitement builds on the appearance of an old hunter amulet; a doll.

Gert Nygårdshaug brings the reader into a world where trout fishing, magnificent nature, archeology and myths merge into a high-end drama.

"Amazing norwegian crime with mysterious and occult twist. Makes you fancy expensive wines and strange cheeses."

Panurgus

"Dinner is served! An extraordinary investigator enters the crime scene: Fredric Drum!"

Krimi-Rezension, Germany

"I was raving about the first in the series, "The Honey Jar". Now that impression is hammered into stone. I love Fredric Drum!"

Gert Nygårdshaug was born in Tynset, the mountains of Norway. Since his literary debut in 1966, he is the author of nearly 40 books, both novels for children, poetry and fairytales-together with literary works, thrillers and crime novels.

The trilogy of Mino (Mengele Zoo, The Heaven & Flower Tree and The Basin of Aphrodite) earned him immense recognition from critics and the public. Nearly 400,000 copies sold in Norway, and elected Norway's favorite novel in the Norwegian international literature festival in Lillehammer in 2007.

His crime novels where the main character is the chef and cryptologist Fredric Drum, also make Nygårdshaug appear regularly on the bestseller lists in Norway. Concerned about the environmental cause, Gert Nygårdshaug fights for the preservation of rainforests, especially the Amazon, where he has spent much time.
