A sixty-year-old man wakes up in a hotel room. He has dreamt about the relay in cross-country skiing for men in the Olympic Games at Lillehammer in 1994, which is closely linked to a dramatic event in his own life. In the winter of 1994, the same day as the relay took place, he lost his eldest son. Later he divorced.
He is a road engineer, lives alone and is determined to carry on doing so. But when his daughter persuades him to create a Facebook profile, he ends up on a dubious page that offers contact with East-European women. He gets acquainted with Kataryna from Belarus, and feels a lust he cannot control.
He travels to Minsk, determined to seduce this woman he has never met, but whom he believes he loves.
Smith has written an intense and elegant novel about loss, loneliness and living in constant anxiety.

'Sharp, contemporary account. (...) This is primarily about a man's introspection and his struggles with feelings of shame, regret and perhaps a pathetic, yet understandable longing for love'

Roskva Koritzinsky

Somewhere In Here

Her inne et sted

Genre: Fiction
Category: Short Stories
Publisher: Aschehoug
Year: 2013
Pages: 112
German sample translations available

This exceptionally mature debut consists of twelve short stories which all depict relations between people who are either related or close friends. The situations described in the stories all reflect that which is on the verge of the unendurable. Very often the protagonist's identity, gender and relationship with the other characters become clear only very gradually, yet the climaxes are never strained.
Koritzinsky writes in an easy, yet exquisite, startling and precise language. She has the ability to render how young people's need for control leads to the fear of tying themselves emotionally to others. The author describes, often in a terrifying way, how a coolly detached person devoid of empathy observes others from a distance.

'Her short story debut is characterized by an almost physical instinct.'

Morgenbladet

Roskva Koritzinsky made her literary debut with the short story collection Somewhere In Here (2013), which received excellent reviews and was nominated for the Tarjei Vesaas' First Book Prize. The Flame and the Darkness (2015) is her second book.

Roskva Koritzinsky is one of the participants chosen for NORLA's development programme for new literary talents "New Voices", a part of the project of Norway as Guest of Honour at the Frankfurt Book Fair in 2019.

Simen Ekern

I am the people. The growth and future of European right wing populism

Folket, det er meg. Den europeiske høyrepopulismens vekst og framtid

Genre: Non-fiction
Category: Documentary
Publisher: Spartacus
Year: 2017
Pages: 255
English and German sample translations available

2017 was the year when right-wing populism should win in country after country. Inspired by the shock of Brexit and Donald Trump's victory in the US, Europe's right-wing populists got together in Koblenz in Germany. At place were a confidant and intense Marine Le Pen. The uncompromising Dutch politician Geert Wilders held a speech, smilingly in his designer suit. On the scene was the strict Frauke Petry from Germany and the down-to-earth Matteo Salvini from the north of Italy. These leaders represent the future of Europe – according to themselves – because they are leading in the fight against EU, against immigration and for a new patriotism. "History is written before our eyes", exclaimed an excited Marine Le Pen.

Author Simen Ekern has travelled through Europe and met party leaders, ideologists and voters to learn about our most discussed political movements. French Le Pen is the front woman in this alliance and Ekern shows how she made her father's party, National Front, into a modern party. When she lost the presidential election spring 2017, the president of the EU-parliament concluded, "The growth of Populism is over". Simen Ekern explains why it may be too early to breathe easy.

"With sharp observations and a pointed pen, Ekern dissects the European right-wing populism."

VG

"(...) should be obligatory for anyone who cares about democracy and the future.... Do yourself a favour and read this book – you'll need it."

Aftenposten

"(...) an exciting, educational and not at least relevant book."

This trilogy, which Norwegian young adults selected as the best book of 2015, has shocked and engaged teens in a sensational way. Film rights have already been sold. Tomorrow Everything Will Be Dark is an action-packed story from the first page to the last. It is a merciless and brutal dystopia realistically depicted in a cross between disaster and a kind of zombie genre. We follow completely ordinary teenagers who are suddenly cast into chaos. Everything that is safe and civilized around them collapses and disappears. They end up as refugees, must make morally impossible and inhuman choices, and yet still have an indomitable will to live throughout all the darkness. And, as the teenagers they are, infatuation and burgeoning eroticism play an important role in life.

This is horrifying, thought-provoking and action-packed. (...) The book is exciting and has action and drive – as well as love. I can't see why it would not be a hit with young readers of dystopian fiction.'

Dagbladet (on "Tomorrow Everything Will Be Dark")

'The story is like a clenched fist in the stomach, and I would not be surprised if yet another Young People's Prize for Literature awaits him.'

Dagbladet (on "Tomorrow Everything Will Be Dark: Marlen's Story")
