With the words below Ivo de Figueiredo gives his reasons for writing a new biography on one of the world's most famous dramatists – a hundred years after Ibsen's death. Ibsen's contemporaneity is evident: His plays are performed from San Fransisco to Ougadougou; his works are reviewed and analysed in a seemingly never-ending stream of publications.

Although the literature on Ibsen is enormous, most of the texts analyse his works, whereas the biographical and historical aspects of his life and work have received less attention.

In de Figueiredo's book, Ibsen's life is well documented and new facts and theories on Ibsen are presented. Backed by a group of Norway's leading Ibsen experts, de Figueiredo aspires to present no less than the new authoritative standard biography without sacrificing his own personal narrative voice. In other words, this biography addresses not only the academic but also the general public.

The biography consists of two volumes, but an international one-volume edition is available:

Volume 1: Henrik Ibsen 1828-1868 – The Man, published 2006

Volume 2: Henrik Ibsen 1868-1906 – The Mask, published 2007.

“This work should be both a narrative of the private and human life of the famous author and a description of the wider horizon around him; the social and historical context of his life and work. This double ambition has to be solved by literary ways of writing. My aim is, in short, to write a book of high professional quality that is also a good read.”
