The Violin Maker

Felemakaren

Genre: Fiction
Category: Novel
Publisher: Forlaget Oktober
Year: 2020
Pages: 350
ISBN: 9788249521425

From early childhood, Lars Olsen dreams of becoming the captain of his own ship. But with the Napoleonic wars raging, all roads seem blocked for a peasants' son on a small farm deep inside a West Norwegian fjord. Then, shortly after his confirmation, he is conscripted, and along with a large group of other young men he marches south through Norway and Sweden to Denmark, where he is plunged into the Battle of Copenhagen in 1801. Later he is taken prisoner by a British ship and spends five years on a prison ship outside of Plymouth. During these miserable years he meets a Frenchman who teaches him to build violins.

And that's when things turn. As he finally returns home, he settles in Kristiansund, and meets a crafty young woman called Gunhild. She doesn't want him at sea – and so the long and arduous process of building a life as a violin maker begins.

The Violin Maker is a novel about war and hardship, but also love and music, and about how everything can turn out differently than planned, so that life looks like an almost undeserved gift.

'This autumn's most gorgeous book! Edvard Hoem has all but surpassed himself with The Violin Maker. I won't hesitate in hailing it as a masterpiece. Simply this autumn's most gorgeous novel.'

The Arctic is blowing up – and Ylva is the spark!

Caught behind enemy lines, NATO-pilots Ylva and John face a seemingly impossible task: They have to cross the frozen Siberian tundra on foot - with the enemy at their heels – to get back to Norway and stop a catastrophe that might lead to World War III.

The relations between Russia and NATO are at a freezing point as NATO launches their greatest ever winter exercise in the far north of Norway. The Russians are provoked and mobilize their own “snap exercise” on the Russian side of the border. A Russian fighter plane is provoking a Norwegian carrier helicopter in the border area between Norway and Russia, and F-16-pilots John Evans and Ylva Nordahl are sent to escort the helicopter safely to shore. The NATO-plane ends up in a stress-flight with the Russian plane, and the F-16 is damaged in a near crash, and is then shot down after ending up on the Russian side of the border. The episode sparks political crisis where both Russia and NATO see the event as an attack. The only persons who can stop an all-destructive conflict are the pilots Ylva Nordahl and John Evans, who must make their way back across the border to Norway, to tell what really happened. It is a fight against time, as the Russian President, The General Secretary of NATO and the private military industry are all sharpening their knives.

Publisher: Gyldendal Norsk Forlag

ISBN: 9788205539273

A gripping new historical novel from Cecilie Enger

They set out as pioneers of their time in the late 1800s, but kept their private lives hidden. Bertha Torgersen and Hanna Brummenæs are unknown figures to most people, but the story of the two shop girls who met in Karmøy's hard, masculine mining community, and – wearing men's hats and coats – forced their way into male-dominated positions, is both astonishing and moving. These two transgressive 'male-women' kept their love a secret from the world around them and embarked on an extraordinary journey up through the social ranks, but also experienced misery in the wake of their life choices.

Cecilie Enger (b. 1963) has studied history, Norwegian language and literature, and journalism. She also works as a feature journalist when she is not writing critically-acclaimed novels. Her first novel Necessity was published in 1994 and was warmly received by the critics. Her big break through came with Mother's Gifts in 2013, which sold internationally and earned her the Booksellers' Prize. She is perhaps best known for biographical and historically-inspired novels as well as strong portraits of female characters.

Keen

Genre: Fiction
Category: Novel
Publisher: Pelikanen Forlag
Year: 2020
Pages: 288
ISBN: 9788283830811

The dog days of summer have begun. The air is dense and pores open up. The radio reports record temperatures. We meet Rebekka, Beate and Live, three girls in an unremarkable small town. They go on a trip to a cabin, planning to make tacos and drink some beers. They meet some older boys and the heat is unrelenting.

Keen is a book about landscape and love, about blossoming and identity. Rebekka is working through the memory of her recently deceased father, but her grief and the life she is in the process of putting behind her go hand in hand with her impatience for what is to come.

Eskeland writes about young people with gripping animation and is able to give life to both the long summers of youth and the quick pulse that accompanies teenage intimacy, brewing sexuality and social intrigue.

'The realistic depictions of the friendship between Rebekka, Live and Beate, stand for me as one of the novel's really great strengths. The dialogue in particular, which in all its simplicity is masterfully written, shows the complexity and nuances of a theme far too seldom taken seriously in literature: friendship between teenage girls (...) Eskeland writes very well, with an elegance and precision that pleases me.'

Ragnhild Eskeland (b. 1986) trained in literary studies and writing at Gothenburg University and has also studied creative writing at the Nansen Academy in Lillehammer. She has a master's degree in French literature from the University of Oslo. Her first novel, Insulated, was published in 2018.

In 2019, she was nominated for the prestigious Tarjei Vesaas Debutant prize, and the jury stated:

'A powerful portrait of living with a cronical disease, through adolescence and as a young adult. The novel also explores, in an open and intellectual manner, the disgraceful aspects of a so-called lifestyle disease, which to a greater extent than many other disorders can be self-inflicted, and which imposes a kind of moral guiding on the patient's way of life, entails an extra responsibility that can be a heavy burden. Insulated gives insight into a life situation that is more rarely illuminated in the literature, depicted with both great intellect and physicality.'

Is it possible to make peace with being abandoned? Where do you turn when your mother takes her own life? How can you acknowledge that which perhaps is unacknowledgeable? And what do we do in nature when nature is unable to understand us?

I Want to Wake up to the World reaches for the dead, for the world, and for an understanding of and reconciliation with childhood and death. Grief and a longing for freedom are expressed through visions, fantasies and revelations, along with ruthless logical observations. Blood Ties

Av mitt blod

Genre: Fiction
Category: Av mitt blod
Publisher: Kagge forlag
Year: 2021
Pages: 380
ISBN: 9788248927518
English sample translation available

Blood Ties is the second volume of the “Clara series”, a modern-day family tragedy. The novel is spun on the themes of grief, betrayal, love, blood ties, and impossible choices. Clara, our eccentric heroine, has recently become a widow and a single mother.

When we meet Clara in the opening of the novel, she has just been appointed Minister of Justice in Norway, a demanding job for anyone – especially for a single mother. From the moment Clara assumes the position, the level of threat against her is categorized as critical. Despite this, she refuses to accept added police protection.

One month after her appointment, Clara comes home to an empty house. Her twin sons, aged nine, have disappeared without a trace. A letter informs her that they will be killed, should Clara inform anyone about their abduction. Clara faces her biggest challenge yet – to find and rescue her sons before time runs out. Will the otherwise invincible Clara manage to find her sons by herself, or are the odds now impossibly stacked against her?

The series is set in urban Oslo and in the dramatic landscape surrounding the deep fjords of Western Norway, where Clara spent her childhood. Blood Ties is a gripping page-turner rendered through a beautiful, tight, and precise prose.

'It is liberating to read a thriller written in such riveting prose: crime fiction is also a good fit for the poet Lillegraven (...) well-written and charged with momentum.'

DN

'Lillegraven wraps the plot in packaging of Biblical dimensions. Nature and nurture, blood and water are just a few key themes. A page turner.'

Viruses on the Loose

Virus på reisefot. En reiseskildring om virus og mennesker

Genre: Non-fiction
Category: Popular Science
Publisher: Cappelen Damm
Year: 2021
Pages: 352
ISBN: 9788202700997

What is a virus? Viruses are tiny. But an invisible enemy like this can bring a whole world to its knees, just as it did in spring 2020, with the COVID-19 pandemic. Through carefully selected stories, the author shows you what a virus is, what it consists of, how it is transmitted and how it produces disease.

Viruses and humans have coexisted forever, so this journey covers biological evolution, our own bodies, historical events, diagnostics, global politics, genetic material, ethics and biological warfare. The book is also about vaccines, one of our most important weapons in the war against viruses. The making of vaccines is in itself a science which is based upon our knowledge of how viruses are constructed and cause disease.

Viruses are bred to spread and don't hesitate to set off on intercontinental journeys, like the travel-loving stowaways they are. Some are extremely cunning and some are so dangerous their fatality rate is close to 100%. Viruses cause contagion by travelling, just as we do, but their journey doesn't stop there. The way in which they produce disease inside us can also be viewed as a microscopic travelogue. We shall therefore follow some viruses as they travel through our bodies to reach the cells they both hijack and harm.

If you are prepared to face what fear of viruses you might have, you'll discover it may help you survive and avoid diseases like warts, cold sores, shingles, blindness and even cancer.

A powerful new societal portrait from one of the authors of Shameless

With the publication of her first book, Shameless, in 2017, Nancy Herz became a lauded voice in Norwegian public discourse. But there were also critics who believed Herz was wrong in raising her voice – her own mother among them.

Why does Nancy's mother judge her so harshly? How many times a day is it possible to ask someone whether marriage is on the cards? And what is it like to raise a child in which one doesn't see oneself?

In this book, Herz enters into a dialogue with her mother. Through personal and difficult discussions they begin to unravel Nancy's mother's story, and try to understand why their relationship has become so turbulent and deadlocked. Because is it possible to inspire young girls to break familial bonds and friendships in order to achieve freedom and respect – and still long for reconciliation at home?

Desire has always been a powerful force. It fills us with lust and courage to win, explore, conquer and love. But desire also has a dark and powerful side. It might be hard to see how this darkness may lead us astray. The will to do good is ingrained in us, we want safety and are compassionate, but we also hold the cause for transgression, savagery and ruthlessness. It frightens us, as if desire is in the flesh. A stranger among us.

Could acknowledging this dark force make us better equipped to handle the stranger among us? Is it possible to own your desire? To explore these and other questions Sissel Gran takes the reader on a journey through life and literature, in light and darkness.

USA, a Superpower in Crisis

USA, en supermakt i krise

Genre: Non-fiction
Category: Current Affairs, History
Publisher: Kagge Forlag
Year: 2021
Pages: 151
ISBN: 9788248927440

The American dream is over. Three decades after the fall of communism, the mood in the USA is dramatically different than it was in the era when the country emerged victorious from the Cold War. Nowadays, the country is ravaged by despondency, unrest and, to some extent, chaos. So what went wrong – and what needs to be done?

In this book, Professor Espen Hammer offers a penetrating portrayal of the country's most important lines of conflict. Although the current unrest is often attributed to Donald Trump, Hammer shows the larger forces that have operated beneath the surface over time, transforming the US from a relatively safe homeland to a nation of immense social differences, deep political divides and dysfunctional democracy. By directing a spotlight on the economy, right-wing populism and the crisis in the political system, Hammer reveals the crucial intersections in today's America. The result is a razor-sharp book that cuts straight to the heart of the USA's most important challenges.

Espen Hammer is professor of philosophy at Temple University, Philadelphia. He has lived more than 20 years in USA — in New York and Philadelphia. He has published three books in Norwegian: Theodor Adorno (Gyldendal 2002); Det indre mørke: et essay om melankoli (Universitetsforlaget 2004); Anstendighet og revolt: noen betraktninger omkring Dag Solstads forfatterskap (Oktober Forlag 2011). He has published the following academic books: Stanley Cavell: Skepticism, Subjectivity and the Ordinary (Routledge 2006); Philosophy and Temporality from Kant to Critical Theory (Routledge 2018); Adorno's Modernism: Art, Experience and Catastrophe (Cambridge University Press 2015).

Voice of the Century. The History of Kirsten Flagstad

Århundrets stemme. Historien om Kirsten Flagstad

Genre: Non-fiction

Category: Biography

Publisher: Opera Forlag

Year: 2021

Pages: 332

ISBN: 9788292845141

English and German sample available, plus English synopsis

The biography of Kirsten Flagstad, The Voice of the Century, is a story of triumph and tragedy. The shy and stubborn Norwegian singer who became world famous overnight, cultivated in the United States as the world's greatest voice and in Europe for her vocal art, Flagstad rescued the New York Metropolitan from bankruptcy in the 1930s and revitalized interest in Richard Wagner's operas in the United States. In music history, she is considered one of the foremost Wagner interpreters ever. She was also a big draw at Covent Garden in London, at the festivals in Zurich and at La Scala in Milan. During and after the war, she was unjustly accused of having had Nazi sympathies, of singing to Hitler and of profiting greatly from the war. These rumors are traced to leading officials in the Norwegian Foreign Ministry. A campaign was launched against her, resulting in major demonstrations around her performances in the United States. Her fortune was seized and she had to live under police protection.

The biography looks into the darkest corners of Norwegian intelligence history, scandals that jeopardized both the police and the prosecution's credibility. The thoroughly documented account of how a foreign ministry organized a years-long persecution of a world-renowned female artist is as creepy as the most well-composed thriller.

Ingeborg Solbrekken is a Norwegian author and playwright with a number of publications behind her. Her three books about the legendary Kirsten Flagstad makes her the world's leading researcher on Flagstad's biography. Two of the books have been seized by filmmakers, and the book concerning the persecution of the world star was designated by the newspaper Fædrelandsvennen as one of the best books of the year.

Her research on non-judicial aspects of the post-war settlement has received much publicity. Fall 2018, Ingeborg published a comprehensive account of the communist-led resistance movement in Norway during the war.

The Hand Made Tale: Chainsaw Mindfulness

Med berre nevane. Eit forsvar for praktisk arbeid

Genre: Non-fiction
Category: Narrative non-fiction
Publisher: Samlaget
Year: 2020
Pages: 143
ISBN: 9788252196658

We humans have always used our hands to create the world around us. Until now. Today we have gone from being practitioners to theorists, from being producers to consumers. What happens to us when we no longer use our hands? What happens to society? This is the story of building a small, but absolutely necessary house on your own and feeling an intense joy of doing it by yourself.

Siri Helle inherited a cabin of 25 square meters, without electricity and without inlet water, and without an outhouse. She decided to build the outhouse herself, a bit like a protest, but mostly to find out if she was able to do it.

The outhouse is being built with material found at sight, different from any other outhouse since it is built by an amateur, and Siri learns a lot. She manages to make the planks from the large trees, she builds the turf, she braids walls of juniper twigs, uses her knife to make shavings – and her sense of achievement grows. A feeling stronger and warmer than many other in this world.

And together with these feelings she feels a growing connection to her own roots. She never met the grandfather who built the cabin. But the feeling of belonging, and the feeling of contributing to his work with her bare hands is strong. To create, to build something with your own hands, create something useful – is something everyone should try, she thinks. Not at least, those who think they can't.

'Stunningly lots of wisdom may come out of building an outhouse.'

Bergens Tidende

'I nod my head with pleasure when I read this book. Siri Helle swings the pen as surely as the chainsaw. (...) It is not written for trained craftsmen, but for those of us who long to do more with our hands, but who do not think we have it in us.'

Illustrated children's novel from the creator of Yesper and Noper

Juri is about to turn 12 and feels nervous about absolutely everything. All on his own, he has to work out love, football, and how deep you should go with your tongue when you kiss someone so nobody chokes. Juri wonders whether he is in love, while his best friend Evy starts behaving a little bit strangely. Then, to top it all off, Juri's dad has just left his mother.

This is a story all about that phase of life between childhood and adolescence, while Juri wishes time would stay still for just a moment.

*After all, Sofi is so pretty that Juri can't breathe.
But Juri doesn't want to suffocate.
He just wishes that everything was like before.
That dad didn't have to move out.
That his best friend Evy wasn't acting so weird.
Why does he have to have so many feelings?
It feels like the world is spinning far too fast.
If only it could just stop for a moment.*

Illustrated by the author.

'Kari Stai writes warmly and believably about the rather exhausting stage of life on the cusp of becoming a teenager. Beautifully illustrated by the author herself. In a surprisingly short amount of time, she manages to establish a world that is both true-to-life and credible.'

Places to Piddle. A book for we who pee

Steder å tisse

Genre: Children and Young Adults

ISBN: 9788205505766

*"I pee!
But do birds pee in the sky?
Do they wee-wee even when we can't see?
What about spiders? And flies?
Or bats and ghosts?
Do they also need to stop and take a leak?
One time I drank a lot of fizzy pop.
It went straight through me.
Pop in, pee out.
It was like magic."*

One of Norway's leading picture-book artists has done it again: got down to knee height to put a human phenomenon under the microscope – a phenomenon that usually fascinates children more than it does adults. In this book, peeing is both magical and mysterious, ordinary and everyday. A beautiful book, rich in detail, to inspire conversation and wonderment in philosophers big and small alike.

"Strange and wonderful book (...) opens up for philosophising about all things great and small. (...) Nyhus's picture books are magical portals. They play a part in enriching Norwegian children's literature."
